

Catholic Super Leads The Way In Superannuation Satisfaction Two Years In A Row

Catholic Super continues to demonstrate its outstanding service levels and commitment to members by topping the polls in consumer satisfaction ratings, as the latest Roy Morgan Research findings show.

After achieving the highest rating in 2015 (72.7%), Catholic Super has not just topped their own rating but also the ratings of all funds, with the highest level of satisfaction in 2016 (77.3%). This was followed by Cbus (67.6%), HESTA (67.5%) and UniSuper (63.5%).

The Roy Morgan report also revealed that industry super funds continue to outdo retail super funds when it comes to financial performance satisfaction, with industry funds recording stronger satisfaction levels than retail competitors since the survey began in 2002*.

"We are thrilled to hear our members have, for two years in a row, been pleased with our performance and rated us accordingly. Catholic Super is committed to continuing our excellent performance and providing financial wellbeing. Being member-owned means we can function entirely in the best interests of our members by reinvesting all returns back into member funds without needing to pay out dividends or returns to shareholders – our members are our owners," said Frank Pegan, Chief Executive Officer of Catholic Super.
